Latin Roots Lesson 2

1. Who can be duplicitous? Could “duplicity” be used to describe a situation or an event? How about a business? Why or why not?
2. What’s something that you’re circumspect about?
3. Define “temporal.” How does “temporal” connect or relate to the word “temporary”? How about “temperature”?
4. What is the difference between “inundate” and “implicate”? What’s something Ms. Hagens might be inundated with? What’s something she might be implicated in?
5. What is a cartel?
6. Who issues edicts? Could these people also issue benedictions? Explain.
7. What is the difference between “consecutive” and “simultaneous”?

8. A lot of words end in d-u-c-e. Let's define a few:
 - a. Seduce
 - b. Induce
 - c. Produce
 - d. Adduce

How do those prefixes (se-, in-, pro-, ad-) affect the root (duce) so much? How are those words all connected?

9. What's the difference between "artifice" and "artful"?

10. What's the difference between "obsequious" and "obsequies"?

11. "Pugnacious," "pungent," and "poignant" all come from the same root but mean very different things. How can each of these words be defined with "to prick; to point"?
